Overall Objective and Purpose

This is a four part video course dedicated to raising the bar by improving attorneys' professionalism, integrity, civility, ethics, and image; and improving their relationship with clients.

Subject matter and content of each video session

Part 1 and Part 2 These two sessions will focus upon and discuss attorney image, professionalism, integrity, civility, and ethics. Attorneys will learn what conduct and attributes offend their clients and which are respected by them, and how to improve the public's perception of attorneys. Attorneys will learn which foot to put forward, and learn which 'third rails' should be avoided in order to promote respect and confidence.

Part 3 This session will focus upon and discuss attorney advertising and how it affects image, professionalism, integrity, and ethics; and will offer recommendations on what to avoid, and how to improve attorney advertising in a way that will gain respect and promote confidence in the legal profession.

Part 4 This session will focus upon and discuss attorney communication skills and trial conduct, and how they affect attorney image, professionalism, integrity, civility, and ethics; and will offer recommendations on how to improve attorney client relationships and trial conduct. Attorneys will learn what offends the public and what is respected by the public, and how to put their best foot forward, and avoid 'third rails' to improve their image and promote respect and confidence in the legal profession.

Attorney participants may also ask questions by phone and email, and will, within 24 hours, receive a response from the course provider.

Verification and Documentation of Attorney Attendance

We verify attorney attendance by embedding codes within the video program. After watching the videos, participants are required to submit the embedded code words by email as proof of attendance.
